The Sale of Goods Act Kenya, originally derived from the UK Sale of Goods Act 1893, has been adapted to suit Kenya's legal and commercial environment. It primarily regulates contracts where the transfer of ownership of goods occurs from seller to buyer for a price. The Act aims to provide clarity, protect consumer interests, and facilitate smooth commercial exchanges.

Key Objectives of the Act:

- Define the nature and scope of sale transactions
- Specify the rights and duties of parties involved
- Establish remedies for breach of contract
- Ensure consumer protection and fair trading practices

Scope and Application of the Act

The Act applies to:

- Sale agreements for cash or credit, including barter arrangements

It excludes:

- Sales of real estate or land
- Hire-purchase agreements (unless explicitly incorporated)
- Situations governed by other specific laws, such as the Consumer Protection Act

Classification of Goods under the Act

Understanding what qualifies as goods under the Act is fundamental. Goods are classified into:

- Future Goods: Goods that are to be manufactured or acquired by the seller after the contract is made.

- Specific Goods: Goods identified and agreed upon at the time the contract is entered into.

- Unascertained Goods: Goods not specifically identified at the time of sale; they are part of a larger mass or stock.

Implications:

- The type of goods influences the formation of the contract, delivery terms, and risk transfer.
- For example, contracts involving future goods typically include clauses about manufacturing or procurement timelines.

Formation of a Sale Contract

The Act stipulates essential elements required for a valid sale of goods:

- Offer and Acceptance:

- The seller must make a clear offer to sell goods, which the buyer accepts unequivocally.

 - Warranties: Ancillary terms that do not go to the root of the contract but provide remedies if breached.
- Passing of Property (Ownership):
 - The transfer of ownership depends on the nature of the goods and the terms of the contract.
 - Specific rules include:

- Unascertained Goods: Risk passes when goods are ascertained and appropriated.
